

INTRODUCTORY LETTER

It gives me a great pleasure to welcome you our fresh young men and women who are joining this great College. You rightfully deserve your places here after a grueling four years in your respective high schools. This is, therefore, a new dawn in your lives. You are opening a new chapter in your life, embarking on various programmes of hard work. The fruits of which, you will realize after the completion of your respective Certificate and Diploma courses.

While you are here at Mwangaza College, you will be expected to pay special attention to your academic work and ensure that you are excelling in your work and nothing short of that. I must point out to you that failure to achieve the prescribed grades will automatically disqualify you from achieving your goals. You should therefore minimize the enjoyment at the expense of your academic studies as much as you can. It is only through this approach that you will achieve what brought you here.

This Division of academics is your home where you will be interacting with your competent and very able tutors on day to day activities in class, and various workstations. Please feel free to ask questions on whatever is not clear. It is important for all of you to pay special attention to your class work.

The aim should be for the best grade that you can achieve at the end of your course. You will find various persons through my office of valuable assistance in your everyday life to begin with your head of department is responsible for your academic advisors who are very close to you and is the person whom you should confide in when you see things are not getting on well academically, this is the person who will let you know how to move on with ease.

You will also have departmental tutors whom you should feel free to consult throughout the semester. There is the Dean of students, who will be available to listen to your concerns, but in most cases the Dean will handle student affairs. So kindly exhaust your concerns with the Dean first before going to the other members of staff. Please help us to assist you in all ways possible and you will enjoy your stay in Mwangaza College throughout your academic programme.

Mr. Paul Waweru
